Founder

January 1987

Letter from the President

Dear Fellow Members,

Let's get in touch! We have all been busy with our own lives and our own practices. Now is a good time to get in touch with each other. The holidays will be over, but a few dozen New Year's Greetings would brighten-up all of us.

Especially remember Nimet Salem in Geneva, Switzerland, and Adelheid Gerstenberg in Hadamaer, W. Germany, both in the hospital with fractures of the pelvis.

Send greetings, plus your inspiration, your latest achievement, your hopes, dreams, and love for the support and encouragement of all of us who are seeking to use NIP to bless and to heal persons who bear wounds and scars from life on this planet.

My personal good news is a new right hip. I had total hip replacement on Nov. 5th, and was back to work on Nov. 19th without any arthritis! I am almost ready to DANCE WITH TANCE!

Love and Hugs,
George M. Rynick, President

Letter from the Editor

Greetings and a happy 1987!

The newsletter is sorely in need of feature articles! Since this publication is oftentimes the main bond of communication among members, I can't encourage you enough to share your experience in topics of which we can all benefit. Please send your typewritten articles to me, the newsletter editor. To those who have contributed articles during 1986, thank you. And for those of you interested in submitting articles in 1987, a big "Thank You" in advance.

The newsletter is published by the 1st of January, April, July and October. Deadlines for submitted information are one month prior to the edition in which you want it to appear. Remember: Any article, listings, etc., needs to be sent to me.

Thank you for your support.

Hugs,
Pat

Remembering Dan Casriel, M.D.

Although the responses were few concerning remembrances of Dan Casriel, M.D., founder of the New Identity Process, it is fitting that those who did respond should have those special memories shared with the rest. Thank you, too, for allowing us to benefit from your experiences.

— From Janice Frank, Teaching Fellow

When I think of Dan Casriel, I think of the wonderful way (with a simple phrase) he would put problems in their proper perspective. Two experiences came to mind:

Dan came to Syracuse to do a workshop shortly after our son Jeffrey died. The week before Jeff died he sent me one of John Lennon's last tapes. I found myself playing the tape over and over and over again, searching for some hidden meaning to the beautiful words in the song "Woman". I asked Dan to listen to the tape and then tell me what he thought Jeff was trying to tell me when he gave it to me. Dan listened to the tape, then turned to me and said, "I guess he wanted to say, 'I really love you.'"

I remember another of Dan's one liners. We were driving him from Syracuse to do a workshop in Binghamton, NY. We were due to arrive at 10 a.m. Dan sat between two women in the back seat of the car. I was in the front with the driver. I was the navigator and kept trying to give directions to the driver. I thought I was giving proper instructions but the driver insisted she knew the right way to turn. It was getting close to 11 a.m. and we hadn't found the workshop location. The driver kept saying, "trust me, trust me." One wrong turn led to another as all of the women became more and more agitated. Here we were, literally driving around in circles and feeling more and more responsible. After all, we had the workshop leader and it was an hour past the workshop starting time. I turned around to see Dan sitting in the back seat with his pixie grin — all he said was "I guess we're going to be late!" God, I loved that man!

— From Caroline Sperling, Teaching Fellow

My memories of Dan Casriel are so varied and so numerous that they sometimes seem like a collage of his loving, caring self. I delight in showing patients his picture with the eyes that reach out and bond with that brilliant knowledge bump showing above.

The most vivid memory I have recounted in a chapter I have written called "On Cheating Death and Dying," which will hopefully be published soon in a book.

"I had been training for over two years with an internationally eminent New York psychiatrist, Dr. Daniel Casriel, whose New Identity Process was to become one of my life-savers. Dr. Casriel was leading a workshop at Fairfax Hospital in northern Virginia the weekend that I was making my decisions about treatment. I had several patients in the workshop; so I went over on Friday evening to check on them and to say hello to Dr. Casriel. It felt more like going to say good-bye. He was shocked to hear my news and instantly said that I was going to New York with him on Sunday to begin treatment there. I protested, telling him about all the doctors I was talking to here in Washington and my plans for Mexico. He interrupted, insisting that I was to be on the three o'clock shuttle with him on Sunday.

"The weekend was spent arguing back and forth with myself about what to do. In the end, my admiration for Dr. Casriel as an outstanding physician overcame all my doubts. I was glad to go where he could watch over my treatment. I also knew I had absolutely nothing to lose. Thus it was that Sunday afternoon I went to New York with Dr. Casriel."

The words cannot do justice to the love that Dan conveyed to me, the idea that I was too lovable to die, that I was entitled to be healthy and happy. My great pleasure now is to share his insights and his love with my patients as they struggle to heal their bodies and their lives.
