About Bonding Psychotherapy:

Bonding refers to the existential human need for emotional openness while experiencing physical closeness.

Bonding is a form of body-psychotherapy that allows for nurturing and the development of a secure attachment style. In the group process, we can experience being accepted for who we are.

An important part of bonding psychotherapy is also uncovering and transforming internalized, mostly unconscious attitudes towards oneself and the world.

Bonding allows us to quickly get in touch with ourselves and have corrective experiences.

Bonding creates space for self-discovery, self-love and sincere, vibrant encounters and relationships.
